Wonders—One for Wall Street
Where Would You Move?
No Farm-Tariff-Relief
Happy Little Octopus

Of wonders there is no end.
Everybody knows that in his blood are white corpuscles, or phagocytes, that attack disease germs.

Who would have guessed that our atmosphere contains beneficent atoms that absorb and destroy dangerous "cosmic rays" that bombard this earth from all directions?

Prof. Robert A. Millikan of California tells you about that.

Wall Street will devour this fact, revealed to the National Academy of Sciences.

There exists a "crystalline opesia" that can digest more than ten million times its weight in egg albumen in 24 hours.

If something like that could be found to digest a hundred million times its own weight of undigested securities, it would be very valuable, just now, and some underwriting bankers would walk and bleed it.

Mayor Walker of New York, who intends to show other cities how to create employment by spending money wisely on tunnels, bridges, wider roads, said yesterday:

"If this country is not all right, where are you going to move to?"

No new tariff for the present. Republicans, regulars, who thought they must go through the motions of "farm relief," were swept aside yesterday, and on motion of Senator Walsh the Senate adjourns tomorrow.

"Gee! thou a man diligent in his business, he shall stand before kings."

Standard Oil was diligent, and in old trust-busting days somebody said:

"That will soon be a one-billion-dollar octopus, go to, let us chop it up."

The big octopus was chopped into little octopi; that this year have paid cash dividends of $213,000,000, or 5 per cent on eight billions three hundred and millions.

And the little octopi are getting bigger and bigger, bigger, and bigger, and bigger, and bigger, and nobody gets excited any more.

Millions have studied the puzzle, "How old is Ann?" A few are working at another puzzle, "How old is man?"

The learned Henry Fairfield Osborn, head of the American Museum of Natural History, learns that the protoboscids, which the scientists call "beetle-like" examples, were accompanied in their migrations by puny beings as long ago as the early Pleistocene times.

Man may have reached the North American continent "many millions of years before it is generally supposed."

How old is man?

How old is man? It was said to be 100,000, then 500,000, then 1,000,000 years. Now it runs into many millions of years.

More interesting is scientific proof that the earth will last, with man living here for a million and a million years more. The human race should do something in that length of time, stop war, abolish poverty, cheating, swindling, and cease devouring to get to getting money that it doesn't need.

At the request of the Japanese Government, J. P. Morgan, Kuhn, Loeb, National City Bank and First National Bank of New York, grant a $25,000,000 credit to the Yokohama Specie Bank. This is done "to lift the Japanese gold embargo, stabilize the yen and restore the gold standard."

That seems a good deal to do with $25,000,000. With that sum on our recent high finance bazaar, wouldn't start a small chain of sausage stands.

The management of a sausage stand strangely drags you into the middle of the picture. A man old lady in New Jersey, abandoning a stand well situated, with a well written "Hot Dog" sign, says:

"You can't star in business now unless you sell liquor, and I don't know how to do that."

In Prussia you can be sent to jail for six months for sending a letter to your wife or husband. Extreme socialists sent this law killer because it didn't make marriage any better. Old-fashioned Germany says the penalty must stay, although imprisonment is only inflicted when the aggrieved husband or wife requests it.

An unpleasant disease, called "trench mouth," is prevalent. Young ladies bawling are susceptible to it, because their resistance is low.

Young masculine friends of such ladies are advised to observe an austere attitude while the bawling lasts. Trench mouth is contagious.

20 INJURED BY EXPLOSION AT SHRINE

Mystery Veils a Blast That Wrecks Building in Busy Shopping District

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—An explosion in the downtown commercial district of Washington wrecked a portion of a city block today and injured numerous persons.

Police at the scene estimated that some 20 passersby and employees of a Macy's five-and-ten-cent store, under which the explosion occurred, had been injured.

Whether any fatalities had occurred was not determined immediately, as all of the victims were rushed to hospitals in private cars and ambulances as fast as they were located.

The explosion lifted a part of the concrete sidewalk about 40 feet square high into the air. Firemen serving immediately began digging beneath the ruins for bodies. Within a few minutes ten injured persons had been rescued from the ruins.

No explanation for the explosion was found, but police expressed the opinion that an overloaded boiler beneath the store might have been responsible.

Fire apparatus, ambulances and privately owned automobiles were sent to take the injured from the scene, which is one of the busiest spots in the city.

Hundreds attracted by the sound of the explosion and fire apparatus gathered around the site, and police reserves were called. Steam hauled from the city upon firemen as they worked to fit the huge blocks of concrete which had fallen.

HER SUBLIME FAITH

Through the snow and dust she nudged up the road to the shrine, recited her prayers and, when she started to walk about the cemetery, felt her rheumatism gone.

"I tried to get my son to come with me," she said afterward, "but my son is selfish. I am not bash in God, I have made the sacrifice and God has been good. If you believe in God, I have made the sacrifice and sacrifices for Him, everything is made better."

Mrs. Thomas was not long gone after dark last night.

WOMAN KNEELS AT SHRINE

Rheumatism Leaves Her After Prayer in Snow; Winter Fails to Daunt Pilgrims

By PAUL WHEELTON
Barefooted in the snow, she came. All the way from Taunton.

And her faith and sacrifice brought today to Mrs. Lena Thomas a cure at the grave of her son, Patrick J. Power in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

Here was one of two cures today as the snow filtered down out of a gray sky and spread a mantle of white over the cemetery that has now become a mecca for afflicted with Holy Cross Cemetery today, and the shroud under foot soaked through shoes.

But although the conditions cut down the numbers of pilgrims, there were several thousands who braved the elements to prove their faith and to seek cures at the shrine made of Mr. Power's grave.

For years Mrs. Thomas had been a sufferer from rheumatism so bad that at times it crippled her completely.

COMES IN BARE FEET

She tried doctor after doctor in an attempt to find a cure, but without avail. Then she visited the shrine, and visited it again.

Today, following the Syrian custom of sacrifice, she dressed herself of shoes and stockings at her home in Floral St., Taunton, and started for Malden.

From her home she walked to the train, and on the train, on the Elevated and on the trolley car she rode barefooted.

Over the wet concrete of Broadway in Malden she walked in bare feet and then walked through the snow into the cemetery. There she bathed her feet at the faucet from where, in the last three weeks, thousands of gallons of water have been drawn by pilgrims for blessing at the shrine.

HER SUBLIME FAITH

Through the snow and dust she nudged up the road to the shrine, recited her prayers and, when she started to walk about the cemetery, felt her rheumatism gone.

2 TOWNS ARE SWEEPED AWAY IN COASTAL DISASTER

Quake Causes a Tragedy in Newfoundland; Death Toll Is Expected to Grow

St. John's, N. F., Nov. 21—Twenty-eight people were drowned on the south coast of Newfoundland in a 15-foot tidal wave which swept up from the earthquake there Monday, according to a wireless report reaching the Justice Department today from the steamer Fortia.

Two persons, mostly women and children, lost their lives when everything along the waterfront at Burin, including 16 buildings, were swept away by the wave. Four bodies were recovered there.

Eighteen persons were drowned at Lord's Cove and Laminine in the Burin district. The steamer Daisy is rendering assistance to the stricken communities.

All means of communication other than radio is cut off from the south coast.

It is feared the death toll will increase as full reports of the disaster are received.

St. Lawrence also was reported to have been swept by the wave, but no lives were lost there.

The first reports of the disaster said the flooded region was swept away by a tidal wave which came in a "solid wall of water" soon after the second of the two severe earth shocks were experienced.

In some places the wave is said to have been from 40 to 50 feet high.

The first tremor was felt at 5:50 o'clock Monday afternoon and was followed by another of equal severity at 7:25 o'clock.

Immense property damage is believed to have been done all along the coast, particularly to fishing vessels, which may have been caught by the wave.

Attempts are being made today to get more definite reports from the districts through wireless from the ships off the coast.

Expert Tells How Wave Swept Newfoundland

New York, Nov. 21 (INS)—The tidal wave that is reported to have swept over Newfoundland bringing disaster in its wake was in all probability caused by the earthquake that was felt in the northeastern section of the North American continent on Monday, Dr. James H. Kimball, meteorologist.

TWO WOMEN TO LINK M'MANUS WITH ROTHSTEIN KILLING

Some Are Cured, But Some Must Return Again and Again as Winter Mantles the Shrine in Pure White

Little Alfred Lynch of South Boston, at the shrine of Rev. Fr. Power in Malden, proves he has been relieved by prayer by holding an umbrella with his crippled arm.

A visit in the snow storm which did not bring a cure failed to shake in one iota the faith of Filomena Bizzari, 48, of East 124th st., New York city, and she will go to the shrine to pray again and yet again. Photo shows her in wheel chair being conveyed from Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden, after prayers at the grave of Rev. Fr. Power.

To assist the aged pilgrims who make their way to the shrine there are always plenty of willing hands and this elderly woman was greatly thankful for the assistance she received after her visit to the tomb of Father Power.

To Link McManus in Rothstein Killing

New York, Nov. 21 (AP)—The state will present evidence showing that George McManus was in room 349 in the Park Central Hotel 10 minutes before Arnold Rothstein was shot there a year ago November 4, it is said today in the opening of its case in the trial of McManus for Rothstein's murder.

Ten minutes after Bridget Barry saw McManus there, George N. Brothers, assistant district attorney said, Mrs. Marian A. Putnam of Asheville, N. C., a guest in the hotel, heard loud voices in the room, a curse, a bang.

Frightened, she ran down the hall, turning after a short distance to see a man staggering after her, his hands to his stomach.

Terrible, she ran to her own room and locked the door.

The man she saw, Brothers testified, was Rothstein, who staggered down a servant's stairway and was taken by police to the Polyclinic Hospital, where he died two days later.

The state further will prove, Brothers continued, that some time previous to the killing, McManus, Rothstein and other men met in the apartment of James Meagher, a Broadway gambler, and that there Rothstein lost $25,000 and McManus $50,000, most of it paid in cash to Rothstein.

From the ill feeling engendered there, Mr. Brothers said, came the monstrous idea which led to the killing of Rothstein November 4, a year ago.

He also pointed out to the jury that McManus will be shown to have been the lessee of room 349 in the Park Central Hotel, where Rothstein is alleged to have been killed. The room was taken under the name of "George Richards," an alias he said McManus frequently used.

On the night Rothstein was killed, Brothers said, he and Meagher rode down Broadway together in Rothstein's car, going to Lindy's restaurant at 50th st. and Seventh ave., not far from the Park Central.

Called for Rothstein.

In Lindy's the telephone rang, the cashier, answering, asked if Rothstein was there. As was his custom, he said, "No," but took the message, which Brothers said was, "This is McManus. Call Rothstein to call up room 349 of the Park Central."

The cashier gave the message to Rothstein, who talked over the telephone with Lindy, apparently for the Park Central.

The broken screen in Room 349. The shot that killed Rothstein came from this gun, Brothers said. The state will further prove, he said, that on the day of the shooting McManus had ordered whiskey to room 349 and there drank it, in company with Mrs. Ruth Keyes of Chicago and others.

Closing his address, Brothers said: "Gentlemen of the jury, the shooter of Rothstein left that room hurriedly. Evidence we will give will show that McManus must have left room 349 in a hurry."

Mr. Murray passed his opening address. It is understood he will make it when the state rests its case.

Dr. Charles Norris, medical examiner and first witness called, described the condition of Rothstein's body at the autopsy, the course of the bullet downward through the abdomen and the cause of death—"due to a bullet wound."

The bullet was entered as Exhibit "A."

Norris then identified clothing Rothstein wore the night he was shot. Witness pointed out on the bullet hole in the coat there was no powder marks.

He also pointed out a hole in the watch pocket of the trousers and traces of blood near it.

McManus testified usually in his chair as Dr. Norris testified. His smile of the last three days was missing.

In the rear of the court room sat McManus' wife, and his five brothers.

Outside in the witness room, carefully guarded, were "Nigger" Nate Raymond, Meyer and Sam Boston, all big gamblers; Thomas Falcio, Rothstein's valet, Sidney Starn, a Rothstein beneficiary, Beatrice Jackson, a Park Central telephone girl, and others.

Emergency Kits Called a Menace

Representatives of Boston's three railroads, at an adjourned hearing today at the State House, urged the Public Utilities Commission to rescind its order of 1919 requiring all baggage, combination and suitcase cars owned and regularly operated by the roads.

Richard W. Hall for the Boston & Maine declared the company's chief surgeon, contends such kits create a hazard far greater than their absence.

That the railroads should produce additional information showing the use of the kits before the commission was the contention of Lewis M. Grayson, of the Massachusetts Safety Council. The hearing was continued until Dec. 8.

1177 More Now in Federal Prisons

Washington, Nov. 21 (INS)—The federal prison population now amounts to 12,421 of which 3,226 are in federal prisons and 2096 are in state prisons, according to the Department of Justice announced today.

BOUGHT STOLEN U. S. LIQUORS

Providence, R. I., Nov. 21 (AP)—A Worcester woman on the witness stand in United States court here today testified she had bought part of 200 cases of liquor blacked from the government storage vault at 421 Harris ave. the night of September 17.

The Worcester woman, Mrs. Ida Ciaramella, and Riva Pasqualini of Springfield, both government witnesses, told Judge Ira Lloyd Letts and a jury that they had bought large quantities of the liquor.

Four men are on trial for the robbery. They are John Campbell and Harry Leonard, Middletown; Michael Marvella of Newport; and Joseph Greene of New York.

They were indicted on charges of entering the government storehouse; slugging Barney Donahue, night watchman; saving the government padlocks on the vault and departing with the 200 cases of liquor in stolen motor cars.

The government suddenly rested its case at 12:05 today.

Dr. Degener gave the patient an injection of camphorated oil in a second examination, fearing his heart might weaken under the intense pain.

Preparing Advance Keeps Maown Busy

By SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON Commander of the British, Australian and New Zealand Antarctic Research Expedition (Copyright, 1929, on the North American Continent by the New York American, Inc. World copyright reserved by Sir Douglas Mawson. Radio via Ceylon.)

Kerguelen Island, Nov. 19 (Despatch)—The members of the discovery expedition are now busied since our arrival, with the officers and crew of the ship engaged in coaling and watering and the se-entire staff employed during the day collecting and observing scenery.

That is, the scientists are applying themselves to their section's work so far as allowed by the more urgent necessity of overhauling and restoring our equipment. They also do the "black job" of coaling when they hold the crew during the day.

All remaining space aboard the Discovery is being handstowed with brilliant blocks of compressed coal-dust, as the success of the expedition depends principally on the coal available. Unfortunately, the Discovery's bunker space is too small, so that the limit definitely imposed on the possibilities of the forthcoming exploration must be remedied.

Notwithstanding the refitting of tanks, the scientists here are already to make considerable collections ashore, and also from the rich bottom silt of the fjords.

Dr. Degener and Lauby, who attended him during his recent illness, were called urgently and gave him morphine injections, which relieved the pain.

STOCKS HIGHER AT CLOSE

New York, Nov. 21 (INS)—Utilities and industrial swung into higher ground just before the close of the market today, overcoming some selling and profit-taking that characterized earlier trading.

Sentiment in the street was entirely bullish, with all eyes on Washington and the industrial conference. Call money which dropped to 4 1/2 per cent as outside funds were offered in abundance, held the upward trend.

The spurt at the close put U. S. Steel, the market leader, up to 10 1/2 at the close, a gain of 1 1/2 points. Other closing prices were: American Tel. & Tel., 22 1/2; up 1/2; General Electric, 22 1/2; up 1/2; Western Union, 19 1/2; up 1/2.

Easier money conditions, combined with constructive developments among business and industrial heads meeting with the President at Washington, forced the bears into covering their short positions and stimulated wide investment in all the financial centers.

Call money was again marked down to 4 1/2 per cent, as the competition of the outside money market forced millions of dollars on the loaning centers.

The final spurt, the results of which were not known for 20 minutes after the market closed, added from 1/2 to 5 points to the market values of many of the active industrial and utility shares.

Hold Son as Slayer of 93-Year-Old Kin

A warrant charging him with the murder of his 93-year-old mother was secured in Walworth District Court by Watertown police against John Kasabian, 31, of Lloyd rd., Watertown, who is under guard at Cambridge Hospital.

Lieutenant James J. Burke of the Watertown police interviewed Kasabian and reported that the prisoner denied that he knew anything about the death of his mother by gas poisoning in their home Monday morning.

Thousand's See 'Tay Pay's' Wish Fulfilled

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—The wish one expressed by T. P. "Tay Pay" O'Connor, veteran Irish statesman, that he might be buried in England to typify the reconciliation of the two races, was fulfilled solemnly today.

Cathedral was crowded with mourners this afternoon anxious to pay their last tribute to the famous "Father of the House of Commons" at a requiem mass celebrated by the Archbishop of Liverpool, prior to a burial service at Remond Green Cemetery.

The chief mourners were the widow and relatives and Alderman Arthur Harford, representing the Lord Mayor of Liverpool, and Joseph Devlin.

The vast congregation, representative of all classes, included Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, the speaker of the House of Commons, members of the Cabinet, lords and ladies, and numerous literary figures.

Musical was taken from Mozart's mass and Cardinal Bourne gave invocation.

A crowd waited outside the cathedral to pay respects as the body was carried to the cemetery. When the plain oak coffin, covered with the Irish flag, was borne out, men and women broke through the police lines and crowded round the casket.

PLANS 90-MILE SPEED RATE

New York, Nov. 21—Because the management of the Pennsylvania railroad believes it is facing increasing competition, not only from motor cars, but from airplanes, the road plans to purchase electric locomotives with a maximum speed of between 90 and 100 miles an hour, it was revealed today.

An order for 120 of the new high-speed locomotives, at a total cost of $16,000,000, is to be placed in the near future, it was learned.

The locomotive will be used between here and Washington and Philadelphia.

The present running time of five hours and 15 minutes between New York and Washington will be reduced to four hours and the regular schedule of two hours to Philadelphia will be cut to one and a half hours, it was stated.

The new equipment will be part of the long term body plan for electrification plans, which include a electrification between Philadelphia and Trenton and between New Brunswick and Manhattan Transfer.

NOTICE

Beginning, Monday, Nov. 25th, Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden, will be closed to visitors between the hours of 5 P. M. and 7 A. M.

PER ORDER SUPERINTENDENT

DOMINIONS ROW DELAYS PARLEY ASSIGNMENTS

London, Nov. 21 (INS)—The formal designation of the delegates who will represent Great Britain at the forthcoming naval disarmament conference in London in January is being held up, it was learned on reliable authority today.

Friction which has arisen between England and the Dominion governments.

The government's announcement that further construction work of the naval base at Singapore had been ordered almost drew around a distinct fraying in some of the dominions, it was said.

Although the authority which is framed International Navy is service of this friction did not specifically name any particular dominion, it was understood that the Australian government, and possibly also the South African government, objected to suspension of the Singapore base.

The dominions, the informant said, were insisting that their individual interests be properly protected at the forthcoming conference.

The Australian government long has demanded an empire naval base at some point in Asiatic waters as a safeguard against the possibility of her sea communication with other parts of the empire being cut off by a rival naval power, particularly in the Pacific and Asiatic region.

The construction of the Singapore base was largely in response to this insistent demand.

They may state when the others are met that they will find a way to work out a compromise with the dominions of the Empire.

3 COMMUNISTS FACE PRISON SENTENCES

St. Clairsville, Ohio, Nov. 21 (AP)—Three members of the Communist party today faced maximum sentences of 10 years imprisonment and fines of $2000 through their conviction of criminal violations, the first case of its kind in eastern Ohio.

The defendants, Tom Johnson and Miss Lillian Andrews of Cleveland and Charles Owen of Lansing, Ohio, were found guilty late yesterday after a jury deliberated only three minutes.

The three self-styled members of the American Soviet Union were accused of distributing literature attacking the Kellogg Peace Treaty, The League of Nations, the recent disarmament Congress and the National Congress, in Martins Ferry last August during observance of International Red Day.

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—The Prince of Wales narrowly escaped a collision in the air, while he was making a practice flight in his biplane at Heston.

There was a slight mist over the ground as the Prince circled over the air field here today and it obscured his view of another airplane preparing to come down. The Prince and the other pilot saw the danger in the nick of time and avoided each other by a very slight margin.

NEE CUT SAVE PUBLIC 2 BILLION TAXES

Washington, Nov. 21 (AP)—A total reduction of nearly two billion dollars in the taxes of the Nation since 1921 will be accomplished, it is estimated, by the Secretary Mellon's recommendation that the rates on incomes for 1929 be lowered by 1 per cent.

The reduction made by Congress since Mellon took office in 1921 were through the revenue acts of 1921, 1924, 1926 and 1928. The first such became effective in 1923 and cut $62,000,000 off the total collections.

But as the tax rates of the Nation were reduced, taxable incomes increased with corresponding benefits for the Treasury. In 1922 the total income and miscellaneous taxes collected by the government amounted to $1,197,453,033, and the next year, despite a reduction of $263,000,000, the total collected was but $1,000,000 below the 1922 figure and included a considerable increase from some sources.

In 1924 the tax collections mounted to $2,796,173,287, and though Congress that year cut $131,000,000 off the estimated tax payments, the next year saw only a drop of $100,000,000 in the collections which reached a total of $2,645,000,000.

This sum, with the cut, was regarded as showing an actual increase of approximately $400,000,000 from the same sources as compared with the year before.

Tax collections continued to mount in 1926 and 1927, showed a slight drop in 1928 and an increase of $250,000,000 in 1929, despite the other tax cut that took $222,000,000 more off the total taxes.

HIT McDONALD'S 'KOW-TOWING TO HOOVER'

London, Nov. 21 (AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald was bitterly criticized today for "kow-towing to Hoover" in settling the British navy's strength, by P. J. H. Hanson, conservative member of the House of Commons.

Mr. Hanson, addressing the Conservative canvassing corps on imperial performance in tactics, said "all the lobby talk with America all these negotiations headed by ten thousand bugles in the 'front."

He said that a five-power conference to settle our naval parity, would be unnecessary if the British Empire were the great united whole it ought to be.

"Why should the British premier go to Washington to settle the strength of our navy?"

Ancient Rome to Be Scene of Eucharistic

Rome, Nov. 21 (AP)—Ancient Rome, 21 centuries ago, destroyed Carthage after 118 years of warfare; modern Rome, assembled in the Church, next year will give it a new world wide significance.

Ruins of the ancient city, which the third script in 146 B. C. raised and placed into the ground, will be the theater in 1930 for the Church's annual eucharistic congress.

Clergy and laymen of the Roman Catholic Church from all over the world will gather for the solemn ceremonies in the ruins so replete already in historical significance. The city now is uninhabited, and is known variously as Carthago, Carthago, and Carthago. It is located on a small peninsula a few miles north of Tunis and connected with that city by trolley.

It is supposed delegates to the eucharistic congress will be housed in Tunis, capital of a French protectorate of that name in Northern Africa.

Ford Says Wages Must Go Up, Prices Down

Ford said, is cheaper price for products and higher wages for workers. In the end that the purchasing power of the public should be increased.

"Collapse of speculation may have been encouraged by a business hesitation," Mr. Ford continued, "but it certainly was not the cause."

TELLS WHAT HAPPENED
The stock market does not make prosperity, but prosperity is absolutely essential to such an inflation of values as we have seen during the past year. When an inflated stock market breaks, it does not necessarily carry general business down with it, but when general business declines it inevitably deflates the artificial value of the stock market.

"That is what happened. It was only the temporary diversion of business men's attention from seeing what was happening. It is now clear to all that the real explanation of the present situation is not to be found in present stock market history, but in recent business history."

LET THE PUBLIC UNDERSTAND
That the stock market cannot permanently affect us, either for good or bad, and the way is cleared for constructive views."

ROAD FOR BUSINESS
"Business should some decline even while speculative values were at their height, and the causes are plain."

First, there was a serious withdrawal of brains from business. Men who would otherwise have been working out better designs for commodities and better methods of manufacturing and shipping in put more value into their products, were drawn off from the work they were best fitted to do by the promise of quick profits in speculation.

This was more serious for business than most people are likely to realize. I have often said that we need the experience and judgment of men in middle age or older, and when this is withdrawn for a time, business feels it.

"Another reason is that American production had come to equal and even surpass the needs of the people in consumption, but their power to purchase."

NOT OVERPRODUCTION
"This is not the case. It is an overproduction of goods; it is an overproduction of purchasing power. Overproduction can only occur until every need is supplied, but the first need is the need of money. Money in the people's hands represents purchasing power. In the country the purchasing power of the people has been practically used up, and still they have not been able to buy all that they must have."

"I therefore suggest the need of increasing the purchasing power of our principal customers. The American people."

"This may be done in two ways:

'LOVE MURDER' PLOTTED AS IN SNYDER CASE

Chicago, Nov. 21 (ENR)—Rivalling the famous Snyder-Gray "love murder," a dapper insurance agent confessed to shocked police here today he and a pretty young wife had attempted to kill the woman's husband so they could collect the insurance and live together.

They had also planned, according to his confession, to kill his wife.

The participants in this dramatic horror were Mrs. Gertrude O'Brien, 26, 14 East Dor, the saleswoman, her husband and alleged clandestine suitor, and the husband, William O'Brien, who is wounded, perhaps mortally, with three bullets in his body.

The wife, an expectant mother, and not Dor, fired the first shot at the husband in the bathroom of her home. Dor had police. He confessed he pretended to rush into the room from outside the apartment, although he had really been in the woman's bedroom. O'Brien, he said, snatched the weapon from his wife after she had fired two shots.

O'Brien surrendered the weapon to Dor after the latter pretended to be an intermediary. Dor then calmly shot the defenseless husband, he told police.

Mrs. O'Brien refused to admit she fired any shots in her "vested confession." At first she told detectives she did not shoot, but today she named Dor as the would-be slayer. Dor had maintained he knew nothing of the shooting. But after an all-night grilling he broke down.

Burgess, Censured
"Lobbyist," Is Dead
Washington, Nov. 21 (ENR)—William Burgess, 32, former member of the United States tariff commission, who only a week ago was denounced on the floor of the Senate as a "perjurer" and a "lobbyist" by Senator Cawway (D) of Arkansas, is dead at his home near Morrisville, Pa.

Burgess was a witness here several weeks ago before the Senate committee investigating lobbying, of which Cawway is chairman. It was as a result of his testimony that Cawway censured him.

ROSKNOLD OPTIMISTIC
Julius Rosknold, the merchant prince, sounded an optimistic note when he came out.

"Our own business," he said, referring to Sears & Roebuck, "is certainly satisfactory. Our two spots are not so good, but still are better than a year ago. The 'big five' business particularly is lively, as against our retail stores. Despite our increased business, our inventory shows less."

Most of the President's conferees left the White House shortly before 2 o'clock, many of them beat on cabs after leaving trains for home.

President Hoover took Owen D. Young and Clarence M. Woolley, president of the American Radiator Co., over to the mansion for lunch with him and to assist him in the preparation of a general statement concerning the conference.

Final Count Gives Curley 20,457 Votes

Completion of the recount of Boston's 233 precincts gave Mayor elect James M. Curley a plurality of 20,457 votes over Frederick W. Manchester. It was announced at the office of the election commissioner today.

The original official returns gave Curley a lead of 16,631, which was increased by 326 votes in the recount.

William A. Reilly, elected to the court committee, received a total vote of 45,904, the recount showed, giving him a plurality of 1215 votes over Dr. Charles E. Mackey of South Boston. Reilly made a net gain of 794 in the corrected tabulation.

AIR REPORTERS ARE FETED AT LUNCHEON

By GEORGE HAMILIN

With representatives of all the Boston newspapers on board, two Skyway planes hopped off for the company's resident flying school at Marston's Mills, Cape Cod, where the news gossamers were guests of the company at lunch.

Rayner, along with Curdiss, started the resident flying school on the Cape last summer and the school paid so well it was decided to keep it open for the winter and not move up to Boston, like Curtiss-Wright.

Olcott Payson, in his Stearman, accompanied by the writer, left Boston early today for the Cape airport, in order to get things running down there.

Payson intended to make two trips, with two passengers each time, and Charlie Emerson, Crocker Show, in the six-place biplane, carried their full share of passengers.

Immediately following the lunch, the boys were shown around the school, inspecting the classrooms, dormitories, shops and hangars, and those who cared to were taken up in the D. H. Moth planes, which are used for instruction.

Lieut. Clarence E. Shankle, instructor to the National Guard Air Service, brought a rebuilt Consolidated PT back from Middle town, Pa., in 3 hours and 40 minutes flying time. The trip was not completed in one day, because bad weather held up the genial "Dutch" at Mitchell Field.

This is the second ship Lieut. Shankle has ferried in for the school in the past few weeks. A short time ago he brought a new Douglas C-2E in from San Diego.

"Dutch" flying wife, the former Joan Fay, has well over 125 hours to her credit at present, and after the Whirlwind motor which powers her Stearman is overhauled by East Coast Aircraft Corp., she will make a final sport to capture the highly prized transport license.

When the Curtiss-Wright trainer Ford is equipped with the Western Electric public address system tomorrow, George Barry, chief ticket salesman for the outfit, will test the works by singing a song in Chinese.

Barry's prowess in song in this language is very pronounced, and when the people on the ground hear the quaint strains of George's melodious voice raining down on them, they will probably think a new war is on or something.

A Boston department store has chartered the Ford for the remaining weeks before Christmas so Santa Claus can talk to the boys and girls of Greater Boston.

Joe Barber, in Curtiss-Wright's Silson-Detroit biplane, brought four members of the N. E. Council up from Hartford today to attend the final meeting of the council at the Hotel Statler. Barber went down in Hartford late yesterday in the Silson, so as to get an early start today.

There is a standing joke on the airport about the time a certain pilot works a certain supervisor at the unorthodox hour of 4 p. m. Said supervisor jumped out of bed and almost fell out a window trying to see who it was taking the roof off his house. Needless to say, the supervisor's eyes were so full of good healthy sleep that he couldn't get the number of the ship, and would give six German marks right now for the identity of the culprit.

URGES FLYING RULES AFTER N. Y. CRASH

New York, Nov. 21 (AP).—Regulations to prohibit any but expert pilots from flying planes over Manhattan were demanded today by Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen because of the fall of a plane in West 64th st., near Central Park.

Charles I. Reid, 34 years old, an amateur pilot, was killed and his passenger, Robert Bailie, 23, saved himself only by a parachute leap when the plane crashed against the fourth story set-back of a new Y. M. C. A. building.

After an investigation of the accident Commissioner Whalen said: "In my opinion it was inevitable that the accident involved no others. The responsibilities are obvious. It points to the need of immediate action to restrict aviation to the most experienced and certified pilots from passing over crowded areas such as Manhattan. This pilot had met such requirements as there are and the very failure of those requirements speaks for itself."

Bailie, who landed on a roof across the street from where the plane struck, said Reid, who held a private pilot license, had chartered the plane at Roosevelt Field for a picture-taking flight over Manhattan.

He said the motor began to miss while they still were over Long Island, but that Reid kept the plane headed toward Manhattan.

When they were over Central Park, he said, the engine developed a pounding noise and the pilot began to fall. Bailie said he then jumped.

$3.50 Dividend Basis for Cordage Stock

New Bedford Cordage Co. declared a quarterly dividend of $7 1/2 cents a share, putting the stock on a $3.50 annual basis against $2 formerly prevailing. Company also declared regular quarterly dividend of 10 per cent on preferred.

Mussolini's 'Birth Drive' Proves Failure

Rome, Nov. 21.—Despite Premier Mussolini's campaign for "more Italian babies" the first 10 months of 1929 showed only 57,540 births in Italy, a decrease of 23,014 compared with the same period last year, it was learned today. Total deaths increased.

Crash on Roof Fatal

Rescuers worked for an hour before they released the body of Charles I. Reid, killed when a plane he had rented crashed on the roof of a midtown apartment block in New York. Robert J. Bailie, passenger, escaped by a parachute jump. (Associated Press photo.)

FRANCE PLANS TO GIVE SAAR TO GERMANY

Paris, Nov. 21 (AP).—Negotiations looking toward return of the Saar Valley to German sovereignty were opened at the French foreign office today between France and Germany.

It was decided to divide the work among three commissions: one to take up the question of the Saar valley, the second to consider a commercial aspect of the Saar valley situation, and the third to deal with the judicial aspects.

Various other questions which will be considered will come before a conference at a time yet to be determined.

Under the war settlements the Saar Valley coal mines were awarded to France, the administration of the Saar valley was placed in the hands of the League of Nations and a plebiscite was ordered for 1935 to determine whether the valley should ultimately belong to Germany or France.

However, there has been much discussion looking toward the possible return of the region to French sovereignty, the points at issue being what arrangements will be made that would satisfy France.

ASK M'CORMICK TRIAL BE HELD IN SECRET

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 21 (AP).—Trial of a suit involving the guardianship of Stanley McCormick, incompetent multimillionaire son of the late Cyrus K. McCormick, Chicago harvester king, begins today. Briefs were prepared by attorneys for the defense to support a motion asking that the court sessions be secret.

The suit, brought by Mrs. Katharine McCormick, wife of the invalid, seeks the removal of his brother and sister, Harold P. McCormick and Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, as guardians and the establishment of herself as the sole administrator of her husband's $50,000,000 estate.

Mrs. McCormick charges she has been prevented from visiting her husband, and that his estate, most of which is in Chicago, is being dissipated. Among other things she alleges the payment of exorbitant medical fees, citing $300,000 to one physician since 1927.

Mrs. McCormick is represented by Newton K. Baker, Secretary of War under President Wilson, and Walter K. Tuller, Los Angeles attorney. The legal staff of Harold McCormick and Mrs. Blaine is headed by Oscar Lawler of Los Angeles.

Two weeks have been set aside on the court calendar for the hearing.

Death came to Miss Perkins suddenly just before midnight from an attack of heart disease. Mrs. Stevens, an invalid for three months, passed away at 5 a. m. today in an adjoining room.

Edge Named for Paris Ambassador

Washington, Nov. 21 (1929).—President Hoover today sent to the Senate the nomination of Senator

Walker K. Edge (R.), of New Jersey, to be ambassador to France. The appointment was announced some time ago, but not actually made because the administration desired Senator Edge to remain in the Senate during consideration of the tariff bill.

Speedy confirmation is assured.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER BOTH BENEFITED BY BON-TONE

Matron at State House Gained 15 Pounds, and Daughter 10 Pounds

Mrs. Sarah Gibbons, of 11 Jackson Place, Jamaica Plain, Mass., who is a Matron in the State House, recently stated to the Bon-Tone man at Epstein's Drug Store, Scollay Square, Boston:

"For the last few years I suffered greatly from stomach trouble and a severe nervous condition. I would try to confine myself to only certain kinds of food, trying to avoid eating after eating, but no matter how light my meal was, I would still continue to suffer. The pains in my stomach were awful; and this, together with the belching of gas, caused me to become very nervous. I was unable to sleep well, and would awaken very tired in the morning. There never was a week that I did not have to take laxatives, for my bowels, and dirty spots were another thing from which I suffered. As I said previously, all these troubles left me in a very nervous condition, and I would jump at the least sound, as my nerves were completely unstrung."

"When I saw the testimonials of different Boston people in the paper, I decided to give Bon-Tone a trial. I certainly am thankful I did, because today, after having taken six bottles of this medicine, I am in fine health. I can eat almost anything and never have a pain. My bowels work just great, and I have not had a dirty spot since I started using Bon-Tone. I sleep well, and have gained 15 pounds in weight. Another thing, my daughter, who had also been ill, has taken it, and she has gained 10 pounds. Because I am in such good health today, and because Bon-Tone is the medicine that did it, it is the reason that I am giving this testimonial."

Go to Epstein Drug Co., Inc., Scollay Square, (Old) Boston, and meet our representative. He will explain more about Bon-Tone to you.

For your convenience Bon-Tone is sold in South Boston at John S. Austin's Drug Store, Perkins Square, and in Cambridge at the Eagle Drug Co., 136 Mass. Ave., Central Square.

CHILDLESS WIFE STOLE BABY TO FOOL HUSBAND

New York, Nov. 21 (INS).—Babies are things to laugh over and cry over. Mrs. Margaret Larney did both. That's happiness—when you get your three months old Donald back after he's been kidnapped and you thought maybe dead.

Mrs. Irene Rover, a psychological study in mother love, had professed her husband an idle before Christmas. So she took Donald, a special diet baby, from his carter in front of a Brooklyn department store while his mother was shopping.

Today Mrs. Rover faces court on a kidnapping charge. "I married two years ago," she sobbed. "I have a passionate love for babies. My husband wanted a boy and I stole this boy to retain my husband's love. It caused Mrs. Larnay any grief. I am sorry, but it was because of my great love for children."

Mrs. Rover went home and took Donald with her. When her husband returned from work she proudly presented him "a son."

Rover was puzzled at the size of the baby and the amount of hair on his head.

"But, that's a big baby," he remarked. But he put aside his wonderment for pure joy and accepted the congratulations of friends. One gave him an old baby carriage. Rover painted it until it looked like new.

Then he read in the newspapers that Mrs. Larnay was prostrated over the loss of her baby and that she had broadcast a plea to the kidnaper to be sure and feed Donald with a special milk formula, but he did.

"What have you done?" cried Rover to his wife. And she told him her story.

So little Donald was taken back home. He was in the best of health, wore a new white shirt, and didn't know what it was all about.

"This woman couldn't have been bad," said Mrs. Larnay, hugging Donald close to her, "because she took care of baby. She bathed him, fed him and even called a physician. I am sorry for her, but I hope they don't send her to prison."

There was even another cause for rejoicing at the Larnay's. Joy Larnay and his wife had been separated a month. They had grief over the disappearance of Donald, brought them back together again.

Joy rejoined unopposed at their home. The neighbors helped them celebrate.

Air Romance, Better Than "Chickie"

What Has Happened
MARY PATRICIA DAWN,
 the beautiful, young brunette, is the last of her dramas in the person of Guy Elliott, aviator.
 Guy is developing a perfect airplane in the plant of old William Bryson. Heavy duty follow with Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryson, young widow of Bryson's son, with her seductive lure. Labor Guy receives a visit from Barbara and her young son, upon whom old Bryson squandered a fortune. The young man, remaining about the unfairness of wealth. He lured her in by saying for want of a word. When Bryson refused a loan, Barbara swears revenge. He robs the safe and is captured after a fire fight. Preparations are being made for Pat to enter college.
 Hearing much good about the youth of today, Mrs. Dawn says that Pat will marry the sweet girl she is. Pat has a gay time with a rich young student, Lee Tremont. Then Pat's father catches pneumonia and is dying.

CHAPTER 11
PAT stopped her car and slowly took out her key.
 "What a great loon I am,"
 she thought, with a half-sneer-ish grin. Already she could hear her father's mocking delight. But he did say he'd be home at one o'clock. And he HAD looked perfectly sane in the morning—done up—the way he got that terrible fat attack.

She went up to the office, opened the door and stopped short. Richard was sitting at his desk—huddled down, his fists against his cheeks.

She was half across the room before he heard her. He raised his head slowly, but when he saw Pat he sprang to his feet.

"What brings you here to interrupt my inspirations?"
 "Sociality. I'm shopping and dropped in. Thought you might like an elegant lady four to drive your car. You're surely finished with your work by now."

She kept looking at her father's flushed face and hot eyes. She touched his hands. They were very cold.

He grinned when she did that.
 "But you don't feel right, do you?"

"Pats. Just went out and had a swim and a rub. I'm feeling the best piece of work I've done in months. Brain just seemed to glow. Ever get keyed up so that you can do three times your age output? So you'll be pleased to drive me home?"

He went over to the closet, took down his hat. Then he stood with his hands clenched to his chest.
 He saw that Pat watched him and that she was strained, anxious look.

"Your nose is shiny, Pat. And you've got a big black mark on your chin."

He very carefully adjusted his hat. Mechanically Pat went to the closet, took down an old overcoat.
 Pat bit her lip.

"No, I will not."
 "Pat, you're a fool! There you are, no hat! What are you thinking me all day? And that kind of hat you wear!"

But he let her boss him. And when they were in the car, he snipped down and pulled it back over her head.

"Pat, I know what happened, and you gave me a lurid picture of the fat that came from neglected colds."

Pat grinned. You can't make me mind, old thing, by finishing clip-her. And you ARE worried about me. And you're golden this and you look awfully TIRELESS today.

"I tell you it's a vacation. Pat. When you're planning a vacation—a royal vacation. I let it go in the car on Saturday. I'm going up to the country to do those things that make a big penny at that. And there's another job of some mundane for an automobile concern. I'm going to try and make it. Then it's off on the busy day for your mother and I. Shall you let us go? I've been wanting a trip on the car since I was a boy."

"I want to get on a ship and be far in the water. I want to stand at the foot of vast mountains, Pat, and look up them. I'd like to wander over the desert's immortal isolation. I'd like to do these things now—before it gets too late."

Pat glanced at her father. He had his head resting on the cab-ing. His voice had the tang and wildness of youth.

"You sound like a poet, Dad.
 Have you hungered for things like this for 20 whole years?"
 "But we can have them now, Pat."

Saturday morning Pat drove her father to the station. "Don't work too hard, will you?"
 "With all my wisdom left I home. I'll do it in plain steps and waved to her.

In the middle of the week Richard phoned. Pat, sitting in the living room heard her mother had

Summer's Last Incense of the Roses Is Saved as Winter Spreads a Mantle of Ice O'er Hub

Here's a picture that is destined to have many duplications during the next three or four months. It shows a line of autos at North Station, where winter might be said to have taken a taxi upon arrival. The snow clung to the cars until they sped away in the slushy streets. (Staff photo.)

Society Burglar Gets 12-Year Sentence

Sentences of from 12 to 60 years in State prison on each of two charges of breaking and entering and larceny, to run consecutively, were imposed by Judge Frederick J. Poole in Middlesex Superior Court today on Byron Jones, 35.

Jones, known under many aliases as a society burglar, was convicted of two breaks, one in Cambridge and the other in Newton.

Pending against him is the charge of breaking and entering the summer home of Mrs. Edith Hutchinson of Philadelphia, at Beverly and the larceny of $10,000 worth of jewels.

Jones was arrested in New York for the Beverly robbery, and has been held in Salem jail, where it was revealed in court, he made two attempts to escape.

He was taken to East Cambridge court on a writ of habeas corpus and convicted of breaking into the home of Stanley H. Lewis of Cambridge and Alina Trowbridge of Newton. Boston police testified they found jewelry stolen from these houses in a room in a West Springfield lodging house where Jones lived.

After Judge Poole's present sentence, following an hour's trial, Dist. Atty. Russell suggested he be sent to State Prison immediately as he might break out of East Cambridge jail where he has been confined.

It was brought out that eight days before the Cambridge robbery Jones escaped from a prison camp at Lawrence, Mass.

Hoist Injured Man
Out of Coal Barge
 By means of ropes attached to the four handles of a stratcher the crushed body of Tony Zajackowski, 45, of 40 Brattle st., Chelsea, was lifted 35 feet from a coal barge so that he could be taken to the Chelsea Memorial Hospital.

Zajackowski was at work in the hold of the S. S. Kirby, a coal carrier, when the hoisting bucket came down and struck him on the head and chest. Hospital officials said that Zajackowski has slight chance of recovery.

MAY ACT IN TUNNEL ROW

Indications that the State Department of Public Works may take a hand in the construction of the East Boston tunnel and a defense of the present plan by Col. Charles H. Gow, chairman of the Metropolitan Planning Division, today featured the controversy over the project.

Following charges of colossal graft, made by Martin Lomax, Public Works Commissioner, Frank E. Lomax asked Atty. Gen. Joseph E. Warner to define the extent to which the department has seriously in considering the plan.

CHARGE BY LOMAX.
 Lomax, at a hearing yesterday before the commission, held it should rest under the provisions of the general laws concerning its power on questions relating to harbor.

Commissioner Lomax said he was impressed with the force of Lomax's argument and has agreed to the attorney-general as a precautionary step.

He said if the attorney-general supports the contention of Lomax, he would ask Judge Sullivan to issue a writ of habeas corpus to the Transit Board, "practically" between the mayor, Bottomly, Harman and Col. Sullivan.

Col. Gow set forth his defense of the present plan in a communication to Mayor Nichols, in which he said criticisms directed against it have little value.

Other Woman Stole Husband's Love, Says War Bride

Charging that another woman stole her husband's love and shelter to her, Mrs. Katherine L. Wheeler of Everett, a German war bride who is in East Cambridge district court today seeking a divorce and custody of their two children.

Mrs. Wheeler testified she married William P. Wheeler of Everett at Colton, Germany, on May 6, 1922.

She adhered to the position taken in discussions before legislative committees in 1927, 1928 and 1929 and has presented to the committee plans of the B. & M. tunnel in substantially the location when you (the mayor) have selected.

His communication added: "The economic aspect of the operation program extends far beyond the immediate cost of construction. While we may not be able to do it, the danger in not doing it is suggested by the fact that it will prove to be a social evil of the extent which is required to reimburse the community also."

Grace was arrested on charges of theft from the dormitories after her arrest another man was arrested in Bedford and in his possession was found property alleged to have been taken by Grace. The Bedford man was identified as the man whom students saw in the room. Judge Arthur P. Stone dismissed the charges today.

Warner Rejects A. F. L. Initiative Plea

Atty. Gen. Joseph E. Warner today declined to certify the initiative petition of the state branch of the American Federation of Labor, calling for a state law to handle workmen's compensation insurance on the ground that it is not in proper form to be submitted to the Legislature.

A previous petition seeking the same result was rejected by Warner with the statement that it contained provisions considered unconstitutional.

In rejecting the second petition Warner called attention to the fact it was not presented to him until October 23 and that conference between himself and labor representatives did not end until November 1.

A recent charge made with an official of the bill presentation that Warner was "faltering" on the petition was rejected by the Attorney-General with the statement that the delay was directly chargeable to the labor attorney handling the petition, James H. Valley.

WELSH PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS PROTEST GLUECK BLAST

LYONS COMES TO TEACHER REFERENCE

Mrs. Barron Also Declares for Both Unwed and Married Teachers

A storm of protest arose among more than 3000 unwed public school teachers and many others following the assertion of Dr. H. H. Lyons, of the Boston school committee, that unwed teachers have an unhealthy effect on school children.

Characterizing Dr. Lyons' speech against the employment of single girls as teachers as "ridiculous and absurd," Dr. Joseph Lyons, member of the Boston school committee, declared that he could not say all the things on this subject but it is too strong to print.

Dr. Lyons, addressing the Massachusetts Civic League under the auspices of the Judge Foster Foundation, declared that unmarried teachers live "half lives," and declared that restrictions should be placed on them and not on married teachers. "Because the corner is almost sure to be unnatural emotionally and the result of their influence is for all to read."

"I do not wish to discuss the subject from a psychological viewpoint," said Mrs. Jennie Leitch Barron, another member of the committee, "that is for the experts. But from a layman's standpoint, I believe that both married and unmarried teachers would be excellent in all professions and not barred from any except teaching because of marriage and for this reason I believe that to exclude them if they have the qualifications of good teachers. Schools are for children first and not to give positions to any particular set of persons and I believe that the person who is best qualified to serve should be employed, regardless of whether she is married or single. An ounce of experience is worth a ton of theory and experience in Boston public schools has shown that unmarried women have done an excellent piece of work with our children."

"We should remember that the child is not influenced altogether by his school teacher but by his parents at home to work with him. Both single and married women have done fine work teaching and they had had no better instructors, namely a love of children and of teaching combined with proper training and proper experience."

Rescuer and Rescued Shake on It

William McDonald, 19, (left) of Anderson st., West End, owes his life to Seaman Alfred Gray of the S. S. Paul Lukenbach, who rescued him from the icy waters of the harbor. Both were rushed to the Haymarket Relief Hospital as a result of shock and exposure, and from adjoining cot McDonald expresses his gratitude. When McDonald, who is a deckhand, felt overboard, Gray, fully clad, dove in and kept him afloat until a life preserver was thrown to them.

'Thrill' Sailor, Barred Here, Saved in Wreck

Three months ago, Juan Ramon Jurado, 19, son of the governor of Puerto Rico, was aboard a schooner to sail the seas for thrill.

Today he is back home, after having been through a hurricane, escaping starvation when food ran short, seeing Boston from the deck of a schooner, and being rescued by a ship's crew. He is now in the Haymarket Relief Hospital, recovering from shock and exposure.

The immigration authorities, however, decided he was to see only Boston's skyline from the deck of the schooner and that a week later he must return to South America on the schooner Harold G. Foss, one of the same fleet, Capt. C. Steinman Richard in command.

A wreck out, Capt. Richard told the speaker from his bunk. His ship was broken. The vessel, headed for Mayaguez, Porto Rico, and Capt. Charles Chase took command. With Jurado's homeland in sight, the schooner ran ashore at La Vela de Oro, broke up in a swirling area and he reached home in a lifeboat.

Others of the crew were saved with him. They are aboard a New York-bound steamer which will leave in a few days.

BOY IDENTIFIED BY GIRL IN CASE

Helen Bryer Picks Out Man in Lineup at Police Station

Helen Bryer, 17-year-old daughter of a New York policeman, picked from a long-delayed lineup at Division 1 a man whom she believed made charges in connection with the house from which she was rescued. It was learned today.

Later, when confronted with a lineup in a room in the Division of Police station, the girl looked at him, burst into tears and said:

"If that's the man I picked out a terrible mistake has been made. I don't know the man."

The lineup occurred at roll call last evening, the girl being taken to the police station by a woman probation officer, under the supervision of federal officers.

LINEUP WAS DEFEATED.

By order of Capt. Arthur B. McConnell all day and night men on the division were assembled in the guardroom for roll call and a lineup was formed.

Helen entered the room alone and walked down the line and back again. She then turned to the front of two officers who dropped her head, put one hand and touched a policeman on the arm.

She was then taken to a private room, where the surprising drama must occur.

The lineup was understood to have been planned shortly after the charges were made on October 12, but was delayed from time to time on one plea or another.

At least twice during the period Helen went to the Federal building for questioning by federal officers, but the grand jury was not in session.

It is understood that federal officials were in the guardroom at the time she had her selection.

WOMEN FOUND GUILTY.

Further developments are expected when the cases come up in municipal court of persons arrested in the thefts of the Lincoln car from which the girl was taken, after being brought here from New York.

Before Judge Michael J. Murray in municipal court today, Rose Hirsch, Ellen Gluck, Alice Gluck, and Florence Winn were charged with the theft of the Lincoln car and the theft of the car from which Helen was rescued.

Sgt. Albert D. Madden of Division 5 testified the women were arrested in a raid on a Crenshaw house in September shortly after the murder of Samuel Reinstein. Reinstein was a man who had been previously arrested for similar offenses.

Lunch Hour Bargains

Helen and Margaret Lovejoy are but two of many who visited the Atlantic ave. postoffice to take advantage of the magazine bargains at the auction sale of undelivered periodicals. They are seen perusing their purchases, made during the lunch hour.

MAGAZINE SALE NETS $44.15

The second auction sale of undelivered periodicals and magazines at the central postoffice at Atlantic ave. and State st. netted the sum of $44.15 for the treasury of Uncle Sam.

Charles J. Benkert, foreman at the post office, said the sale was in charge of the United States marshal, J. P. Woodside, superintendent of the inquiry division. There were 151 packages, disposed of to the highest bidder, each containing six magazines, many of the current issue.

BACK-BAY MAN ENDS HIS LIFE WITH POISON

Father-in-Law Danies Story He Told at Hospital of Family Trouble

Mary E. Burton, 22, of Peterboro st., Back Bay, formerly of Lake George, N. Y., died in City Hospital today, a suicide.

Shortly before her death she made a statement to officials to the effect that domestic troubles had incited him to take poison in the hope of ending his life.

The young man's father-in-law, R. C. Peterson, of School st., Somerville, denied Burton's statement and stated his daughter, Mrs. Mary E. Burton, was on her way to the hospital to take charge of the body several days ago. Burton took poison, and running into the street collapsed. A suicide took him to a private hospital, whence he was transferred to the City Hospital.

FATHERS OF REASON FOR MIRACLES, MRS. GILSEA SAYS

THREE GREAT MIRACLES AT SHRINE

Faith, Love and Hope Read in the Faces of All, She Says

This is the last of a series of articles by Mrs. Mary Power Gilsea in which she tells readers of the Boston Evening American of her personal impressions of the shrine of her uncle, the Rev. Dr. Patrick J. Power, in Holy Cross cemetery, Boston.

By MARY POWER GILSEA
Faith, to my mind, is the keynote of all the miraculous cures reported at the grave of my uncle, the Rev. Patrick J. Power in Holy Cross cemetery.
At least faith is the only explanation we mortals can give. Perhaps in the next world, for which we all are preparing, a better understanding of the meaning of the shrine may be given to us.

The presence of these three virtues can be read on the faces of every person standing in the long line at Holy Cross cemetery. I have seen the manifestations of those virtues in my three visits to Fr. Power's shrine and I have read them in the daily newspaper accounts which I follow closely.
There is something beautiful to watch the supplicants at Fr. Power's grave. Their faces light up eagerly as they enter the shrine. Reverently they place their hands on the marble slab that I may become consecrated. There is a glow on the sufferer's face as he fully for the miracle to be performed so we may have the cure whole again.

Even when the withered limbs of the aged are bent, and the face is strengthened, the supplicant leaves the shrine knowing well that prayers have not been in vain. He comes back again and again and each time goes away just a little more hopeful that the next visit will be the successful one.
It is also inspiring to see some patient sufferer taking a stronger step after he leaves the shrine. From the accounts I have read in the papers of persons who have journeyed over half the country to visit the shrine I wonder how often the most cynical observer can doubt there is something of the great love of our Father being expressed out there in Holy Cross.
I shall visit the shrine of Fr. Power as many times as I am able. For out there I see the beginning of what the world has long hoped and prayed for—time when men shall believe alike, the time when all men shall accept the Lord God.

Chestnut Hill Folk Want Trucks Barred

Asserting heavy trucks passing through their streets imposed great hardship on them, disturbing sleep "to a degree harmful to health," residents of Chestnut Hill have appealed to the Newton aldermen for relief.

They presented a petition asking that one-way restrictions on the nearby streets—College and Mayflower roads—be removed so as to relieve their own streets of congestion, and that heavy trucks be barred there. "The aldermen said a speed limit of 15 miles an hour be established."

Quincy Police Free Boy Robber Suspects

Three Squantum youths, whose names the police are withholding, were being sought today by Quincy police officers for questioning in connection with three holdups in Quincy, during the past week.
Two suspects, picked up early today by Lieut. George Fallon, were released after they had satisfactorily explained their presence on the street at an early hour to day and had traced their movements during the past week.

Old Boston in Pictures—No. 113

Sleigh riding on the Boston Neck in the winter of 1853 was one of the chief sports of the season. "The Neck" was the broad thoroughfare of upper Washington st., connecting Roxbury to Boston. The street was 200 feet wide and straight for more than a mile. Speeders and those who violated the laws of the road were taken to task by the policeman shown at left, who walked along the route with book and pencil in hand to list the offenders.

SCORES POLICE SIX CHILDREN LIEUTENANT HURT IN CRASH

Lieut. Max Thorne of Back Bay division was scored by Judge Frank J. Good in Municipal court today for failing to comply with the request of Bernard R. Murphy of Highland Ave., Brookline, that a physician be called to examine him when he was being booked for drunken driving.
Judge Good found Murphy guilty and fined him $100, from which he appealed, but declared every defendant arrested for drunkenness has a right to be examined by a physician, who could be called later as a witness.
"Police are human," said the court, "and naturally make mistakes like the rest of us. It is a serious mistake, however, when a doctor who could subsequently be called to court, is not called to examine a defendant, particularly when he requests it."
Attorney James E. O'Connell, who requested the physician, also criticized Lieut. Thorne.

Child in Misery. Eczema Over Body, Face and Head. Cuticura Healed.

"When my son was ten months old eczema broke out all over his body, face and head. It was blistering and badly inflamed. He was in such misery that he could not sleep or rest, and the eruptions used to bleed."
I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped him so I purchased more, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment he was completely healed." (Signed) Mrs. E. M. OLD YALE FENCE IS SOUGHT IN CAMBRIDGE

Police Are on Trail of Auto in Which the Valued Relic Was Carried Away

Unmistakable as has been the efforts of New Haven police to find the three-rail section of the old Yale College campus fence since it disappeared from a photographer's studio at New Haven during the Yale-Princeton game Saturday, there has been no tangible clue to its whereabouts. The only lead which the police are following is that given by the old automobile with Massachusetts registration which stood outside the studio for a time during the game and into which a blanketed bundle was placed.
Chief Philip T. Smith has issued a circular for distribution to police departments in New England and New Jersey descriptive of every detail of the relic.
"It is this relic," said Smith, "which is the Yale fence, valued very highly for its antiquity and use in the photograph business. It may have been taken as a souvenir and have been placed in some college fraternity or club house."
The police understand their Cambridge, Mass., police are searching for the old automobile.
Yale undergraduates today were speculating on the appearance of the fence at the Harvard game Saturday. The Yale News today, regarding the theft in the light of a prank, said:
"A futile undergraduate mind safely abated the fence during the Yale-Princeton game. Our amusement over the prank is tinged with a feeling of admiration for the part which this fun-loving class has played in again enclosing the campus in this non-time-honored which had always been considered a part and parcel of halcyon days."

Says Reverse Will Benefit by the Work There and in Building Postoffice
Urging more appropriations for the Boston Navy Yard in Charlestown and for a government contract postoffice in Reverse, Mayor Andrew A. Casassa of Reverse today sent telegrams to President Hoover, Congressman Charles L. Underhill and Senators Walsh and Gillette.
The occasion for the telegrams was the business promotion conference now being held by the President.
The telegram to President Hoover said:
"The city of Reverse heartily endorses the conference now being held by you. Reverse is one of the cities that is dependent to a great extent upon employment in the Charlestown Navy Yard. The lack of work there means a considerable loss to a large number of people in this city."
"I would respectfully suggest that the condition existing in this city could be materially assisted by an immediate appropriation for the Charlestown Navy Yard."
"If this is possible for bringing about I know that it would be a great relief to many families in this vicinity."
"Reverse has had several conferences with the Postoffice Department about a Government contract postoffice. If this could be built now it would be a further aid to us."
"Trusting that there may be some way to assist in the present situation, I am,
Yours respectfully
MAYOR ANDREW A. CASASSA"

Vanguard of Crowd for Big Game Arrives

Through a snowstorm, by train, and automobile, the vanguard of the 500 football enthusiasts who will attend the Harvard-Yale game in the stadium Saturday began arriving in town today.
For cars that have a room in the back of the student body and the exceptionally warm football season have made their appearance on the backs of the student body and the football fans. Found themselves in the flower market and at noon today they were reported as scarce as room in Boston hotels. Extra supplies were being ordered for the heavy Saturday morning like the proverbial hotcakes.
The great influx of fans kept hotel clerks busy all day. Only those who had made reservations in advance were being taken care of.
Managers of the Ritz Carlton, Copple, Plaza, Statler, Lenox, Hingham, Insurance and Somerset had many reservations had been made six months ago.
Unable to get hotel accommodations, many fans were seeking rooms in "hotels" houses recommended by hotel keepers.
Night club managers all over the city, as well as owners of cafes and "famous" restaurants, found themselves in the same predicament as the hotel owners. Plenty of customers, but a lack of accommodations.
Police arrangements have been completed for handling the throng of pedestrians and the heavy automobile traffic in Cambridge and vicinity during the game.

REDS STRONG FOR OPENER

ALBIE BOOTH'S Charlie horse is getting to be a Harvard nightmare. Albie's leg is strung up, but Yale has been keeping the atom under wraps all year. Anyone who saw the midgelet scamp in the sidelines when he thought he was going in last Saturday, knows how badly he isn't hurt.

There are more miracle football cures. If you believe reports, the week of the H-Y game than there are at any other time when you pick the all teams are all picked the market. At Harvard will find splitting infinitives rather than dividing hostile lines.

Yale's probable removed, that is, the Carnegie square will get a peek. Babe Ruth is predicting for his tilt with Cal. But he needs $5 grand a year to keep himself in automobiles—gamblers have been losing on football; what's the odds?

FOOTBALL reformers would like the run from Kickoff eliminated. Next?

It's a football hero. Though he has won no fame, he's just a tough student, who gets tickets to the game.

ONE of the real perquisites for the mayor-elect of Boston is the job of Yale-Harvard ticket-taker. He has a fine job covering the quarter back who covers the Yale quarterback as efficiently. This player will be led by the Yale coach, Friday; they will be hit by Yale if they lose Saturday.

McGILL is confident he will wrest the title from Sonnenberg. Pat is a seasoned performer. He has covered himself with glory in matches with the best of the big fellows.

McGILL is a more seasoned performer than Sonnenberg and he believes that his experience will enable him to get the best of Gus McGill does not make any secret of the fact he has built up a defense against Sonnenberg's flying tackle.

Sonnenberg rules a favorite at odds of 10 to 7.

SMITH is believed to have been named referee for the title bout.

It was originally planned to have Leon Burbank third man on the ring. McGill entered a protest against Burbank after a heated discussion. Sonnenberg wanted the demand for Burbank and consented to accept Smith.

JOE MALCOWITZ of Utica, A. K. E. champion, will oppose Leo DeVito of Providence in the semifinal bout.

There will be a strong preliminary card. Henry Diglane, French champion, will meet Harry McNamara. Ed George will tackle Van Lewis, while Mike Brown will quarrel with Freddy Meyers.

BOOTH NOT IN YALE LINEUP
New Haven, Nov. 21—Yale's line-up for the game with Harvard on Saturday is believed settled by the continued use of Don McLennan at quarterback. His injury in that position, followed by accurate evaluations in practice, has probably made it certain that no more change in the line will be made before the kickoff at Cambridge.

Charles Reed has been released at left halfback and the combination of Renshaw, Miller and Dunn will be used as first string back field quartet replaced by Austin, Taylor and Leonard. The line will be made for three weeks. Coach Stevens said that Albie Booth may not play during the Harvard game. His announcement seemed logical from the physical appearance which Booth has presented on the gridiron.

Although his injury is comparatively slight, it now seems certain that the torn muscles which kept him out of the Princeton game, may prevent his playing at Harvard in the form which showed as scoring as Sigvald Brown, West Point and Dartmouth.

It is a possibility for dropping or forward-passing emergency, but Stevens' statement made it clear that Yale cannot rely upon him for routine backfield performance.

Booth was in uniform, tossed a few forward passes and was dropped kicking, but he did not line up with the variety for signal or scrimmage drill.

GUS SPRINGS TO DEFEND TITLE

Gus Sonnenberg, heavyweight champion wrestler of the world, defends his title tonight at the Arena against Pat McGill. McGill is expected to give Gus one of the hardest tests since he took the title from Lewis.

The entire squad of 23 Bulldogs are expected to follow Coach W. Stevens on the journey to a bridge. They will come to the arena in special train, and after the initial workout in the Alton house, the Bulldogs will be whisked to the country club near Boston.

The Harvard squad will also arrive in special train, and after the initial workout in the Alton house, the Bulldogs will be whisked to the country club near Boston.

K. O. Christner and Shamus Are Set

COMPLETING the most strenuous training work that ever has marked his preparation for a ring test, Dynamite Jim Maloney, South Boston heavyweight, feels hopeful of punching his way to the peak of the division, when he clashes with K. O. Christner, crushing, punching giant from Akron, Ohio, before a throng of 20,000 spectators at the Boston Garden tomorrow night.

In hopes of succeeding against the towering Erie School graduate, the Pennsylvania idol completed three weeks of steady training today, and during that time he has not stirred from his Westport training camp, and the reliable Mickey Murray is gone. So far Murray is the only goal tender in organized hockey who has scored a shutout under the new rules.

Tigers will get another workout on the big Garden ice surface this afternoon.

And numerous wagers have been made that Christner will win by a K. O. Even Christner admits that he will strive to land a few punches early in the fight, and he will be a critic than Jack Abbott, who is a brilliant boxer.

There is little doubt of Christner's being popular. He is a place in the hearts of Hub fans, by his willingness to swap punches with Schief, whom Maloney always adored and as a result, the ring as a 10 to 1 favorite to win.

Maloney regards this bout as the most important of his career and he insists that he has reached the same form that carried him to victory here over Johnny Blake, Tom Henry and Riccardo Torzaniello in the past.

The South Boston idol will not leave Westport until tomorrow morning, when he will put up for the journey to the Hub for the weighing in ceremony. Christner, who has been here for the past few days, admits that he is in finer fettle for this bout than he was when he met Schief and if such a fact, it is certain that the two Akron giant will make good.

This heavyweight encounter will be staged before a colorful setting of Hub and Yale night will be served at the Garden. The crowd of football rooters will spend the rest of the big football contest, at the Garden tonight, and many of the Yale and Harvard coaches will be included among the coaches.

HALFWIGHTS will occupy the spotlight on tomorrow night, as no less than five bouts between giants of the ring being carried. Emmett Rocco of Edmond City, Tex., who surprised the boxing world recently by his victory over Johnny Blake in the 10-round semifinal.

Maloney will be the main attraction of the night, as he will be the only one to be weighed in the morning. He will be the only one to be weighed in the morning.

REDS STRONG FOR OPENER

ALBIE BOOTH'S Charlie horse is getting to be a Harvard nightmare. Albie's leg is strung up, but Yale has been keeping the atom under wraps all year. Anyone who saw the midgelet scamp in the sidelines when he thought he was going in last Saturday, knows how badly he isn't hurt.

There are more miracle football cures. If you believe reports, the week of the H-Y game than there are at any other time when you pick the all teams are all picked the market. At Harvard will find splitting infinitives rather than dividing hostile lines.

Yale's probable removed, that is, the Carnegie square will get a peek. Babe Ruth is predicting for his tilt with Cal. But he needs $5 grand a year to keep himself in automobiles—gamblers have been losing on football; what's the odds?

FOOTBALL reformers would like the run from Kickoff eliminated. Next?

It's a football hero. Though he has won no fame, he's just a tough student, who gets tickets to the game.

ONE of the real perquisites for the mayor-elect of Boston is the job of Yale-Harvard ticket-taker. He has a fine job covering the quarter back who covers the Yale quarterback as efficiently. This player will be led by the Yale coach, Friday; they will be hit by Yale if they lose Saturday.

McGILL is confident he will wrest the title from Sonnenberg. Pat is a seasoned performer. He has covered himself with glory in matches with the best of the big fellows.

McGILL is a more seasoned performer than Sonnenberg and he believes that his experience will enable him to get the best of Gus McGill does not make any secret of the fact he has built up a defense against Sonnenberg's flying tackle.

Sonnenberg rules a favorite at odds of 10 to 7.

SMITH is believed to have been named referee for the title bout.

It was originally planned to have Leon Burbank third man on the ring. McGill entered a protest against Burbank after a heated discussion. Sonnenberg wanted the demand for Burbank and consented to accept Smith.

JOE MALCOWITZ of Utica, A. K. E. champion, will oppose Leo DeVito of Providence in the semifinal bout.

There will be a strong preliminary card. Henry Diglane, French champion, will meet Harry McNamara. Ed George will tackle Van Lewis, while Mike Brown will quarrel with Freddy Meyers.

BOOTH NOT IN YALE LINEUP
New Haven, Nov. 21—Yale's line-up for the game with Harvard on Saturday is believed settled by the continued use of Don McLennan at quarterback. His injury in that position, followed by accurate evaluations in practice, has probably made it certain that no more change in the line will be made before the kickoff at Cambridge.

WRESTLING IN FINAL DRILL, CONFIDENT OF VICTORY OVER YALE SATURDAY

SATISFIED that his Harvard team is now ready to give Yale the battle of its life on Saturday, Coach Arnold Hooten called the Crimson to their final practice today.

A short drill in which a demonstration of Eli played a part was the chief feature of the work scheduled for Harvard today.

Yale arrives tomorrow and will proceed immediately to Cambridge for their first workout in the Stadium.

The Harvard squad of 23 Bulldogs are expected to follow Coach W. Stevens on the journey to a bridge. They will come to the arena in special train, and after the initial workout in the Alton house, the Bulldogs will be whisked to the country club near Boston.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED representative men, each and every one a leader in his field, are assembled in Boston this afternoon for the purpose of taking account of stock.

There are editors among them and manufacturers, bankers and business men, hotel men and farmers.

From Bangor down to Bridgeport, and from Buzzards Bay to Burlington, there is no community of industrial importance without a representative in this Fifth New England Conference.

What brings them together?

Love for New England, ardent, prompt and ready interest in her welfare!

They have come, from each of the Six States, to define STATE problems, plan STATE development programs, discuss STATE needs.

They are here for the purpose of considering NEW ENGLAND'S present status and the outlook for her future, the future of her railroads, what New England must do in order to take advantage of changing trends in business and economics.

New England "conference"? This is New England's Town Meeting!

There is nothing quite like it in any other section of the country, although events of the past few days have shown that the President has in mind the organization of a body which will serve the Nation in the same way.

THE FIRST New England Conference came together at Worcester four years ago because certain farsighted gentlemen were convinced that the time had come for the New England States and their business interests to recognize the NATURAL UNITY OF NEW ENGLAND AS AN ECONOMIC AREA.

"Let us seek," they said, "to develop the FACTS about New England AS an economic area. Let us strive to develop comprehensive views of the economic problems COMMON to these Six States, and promote co-ordination of effort for their solution."

OUT of that first meeting came the New England Council, the executive body of the Conference, with twelve members from each State, who meet quarterly and put into effect such activities as, in their judgment, will best promote New England's prosperity.

Their initial task was to "find the facts." Out of these facts was created a new confidence. Aggressiveness, a ready willingness to take the initiative, has succeeded to unconcern.

At the present Conference—to consider briefly one of many directions in which the fact-finders have been busy—reports will demonstrate that FOR THE THIRD SUCCESSIVE YEAR NEW ENGLAND HAS GAINED MORE INDUSTRIES THAN SHE HAS LOST!

Not only is this true but the INDUSTRIES GAINED ARE GIVING EMPLOYMENT TO MORE PERSONS THAN WERE ON THE PAYROLLS OF THE ESTABLISHMENTS WHICH HAVE PASSED.

HOW do we know this?

We know it because the New England Council, through its Committee on Community Development, has made studies of the extent of "industrial migration" within, to and from New England in the years 1926, 1927 and 1928.

What are the figures?

The study for the year 1926, covering 197 communities, revealed a net gain for New England of 224 industries and 10,998 employees, after subtracting industries which either moved to other locations or suspended operations.

Twenty-three industries, not counting branch plants, came to New England from other sections, while only eight moved away.

THE study for 1927 covered 266 communities and showed a net gain of 266 industries and 7,587 employees. Twenty industries, again excluding branches, moved into New England from other parts. Only five moved away.

The study for 1928, covering 262 communities with a population of 5,559,274—approximately 95 per cent of our total urban population—showed a net gain for New England of 251 industries and 9343 employees.

These 262 communities reported the acquisition of 584 NEW manufacturing concerns, employing 29,762 workers. Of these, 416 were newly organized companies, 41 were branch plants, 127 represented removals from other communities.

Of the 333 manufacturing concerns, employing 20,419 workers, lost by these communities, 224 either failed or suspended operation, while 109 moved to other communities.

It seems to us to be of peculiar significance that of the industries which moved to other communities ONLY FIVE, employing 155 workers, moved to points outside of New England!

THERE are other encouraging factors in the present status of New England which it is well to have in mind when the subject is up for discussion.

Let us mention but one or two, frequently emphasized by the Council and its publications.

While New England comprises only 2 per cent. of the area of the United States, this section accounts for 10 per cent. of the Nation's manufacturing establishments, 11 per cent. of the country's "value added by manufacture," and 12 per cent. of the wages paid in manufacturing.

IN the four short but momentous years of its life, the Council has set up a co-operative machine which does its work as noiselessly as thoroughly.

Into a pattern of interacting groups are tied the community organizations of six States, along with the six New England Governors—all of them with us today and to remain over for meetings tomorrow—the Commissioners of Agriculture, the hotels, rail and water transportation interests, automobile clubs, marketing officials, advertising clubs, gas companies, power companies, aeronautic groups, publishers, foresters and business research groups.

A cross section of all the important activities of New England, they meet in the realization that organized effort is essential to the welfare of their communities, their States, OUR New England.

CONFERENCE and Council have justified their existence time and again. We could not do without them. The question is how we were able to do without them for so long.

Read the names of some of the more active participants in the two-day program at the Hotel Statler and you will better understand the scope and the character of this meeting.

Charles Francis Adams, Secretary of the Navy; Clarence Young, assistant Secretary of Commerce.

Edgar, president Edison Electric Illuminating Company; Howard Conoley, president Walworth Company; George R. Crooker, acting chairman New England Governors' Railroad Committee.

Walter S. Wyman, president New England Public Service Company; Editor Arthur G. Staples, Lewiston Journal; Edward H. Jones, Commissioner of Agriculture, Vermont; Frank E. Langley, publisher Barre Times; Joshua L. Brooks, Dr. Arthur W. Gilbert, Major P. F. O'Keefe, Col. Frederick H. Payne, Charles F. Weed, First National Bank of Boston; Franklin Fort, M. C.; Hiram W. Lincoln Filene, William Filene's Sons Company; William A. Barron, president Barron Hotel Company; former Governor Ralph O. Brewster, Emily Louise Plumley, president of the Connecticut Federation of Women's Clubs, who will discuss "Keeping Our Youth in New England."

BOSTON had to wait until Worcester, Springfield, Hartford and Portland each had entertained the annual conference, but it comes to us, at last, when both Council and Conference have established themselves in the life of New England and have reached the first bloom of power and influence.

The KEYNOTE of the Conference is: "Maintain Prosperity through Organized Effort."

What does that mean? "Hold everything!" Is an amendment in order? We suggest: "Hold Everything and Get More." Meaning, of course, more business. All together!

H. G. Wells on "The Science of Life"

Written in Collaboration With Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells

DURING violent exercise, on the other hand, the oxygenation of the voluntary muscles is enormous; a resting man requires roughly 250 cubic centimeters of oxygen per minute (just under half a pint), but during exercise he may need 10 or 15 times this amount. These are the opposite extremes of his requirements. To meet this constant variation in the amount of muscular exertion.

H. G. Wells

There have to be corresponding changes in the breathing rhythm and in the blood-flow.

The contraction of the muscles concerned in breathing—the intercostal muscles between the ribs and the muscular part of the diaphragm—are due to nervous impulses coming from the brain. The impulses emanate from a center at the lower end of the medulla and travel to the muscles concerned along certain nerves—the intercostal nerves to the intercostal muscles, and the phrenic nerves to the diaphragm. It is a continual series of rhythmic nervous discharges from this center that keeps the respiratory system in motion. Now, the activity of the respiratory center can be modified, either by nervous impulses from other sources or by changes in the chemical composition of the blood which bathes it. The respiratory center is very sensitive to the amount of carbon dioxide in the blood, responding to any increase by a more vigorous and rapid stream of impulses. If the carbon dioxide in a man's blood is increased by as little as 3 per cent. of its normal value, the rate of breathing is doubled. Similarly, if the carbon dioxide in blood is unusually low the rate of breathing falls off. If it is decreased by only 3 per cent. his breathing stops altogether. On the other hand, the center is not very sensitive to the amount of oxygen in the blood. Suppose, for example, that a man goes into a room where the air is deficient in oxygen—containing, say, half the normal amount—but where the carbon dioxide concentration is normal. There is a slight asphyxiation, to oxygen-lack, and he therefore has a little—but by breathing he blows out most of the carbon dioxide in his blood, and hence this is the more potent controlling factor, his breathing slows down again. He suffers no further discomfort, but a certain lassitude comes from him and presently he falls unconscious from asphyxiation. The paradox presents itself here: although carbon dioxide is a poison there must be a certain amount of it present if the respiratory system is to work. This does not injure an animal or a savage living a normal life; any oxygen shortage in the blood of either will be due to bodily effort, and therefore accompanied by carbon dioxide production. But it is dangerous to asphyxiate man. The oxygen demands of an active body are not met merely by increased breathing; they are also supplied by more rapid circulation. The most important adjustment of the circulation is made by the capillaries. The capillaries are not rigid tubes; they are venous, elastic, and can narrow or widen their bore from its normal condition. During exercise the capillaries open more widely, permitting a flow through the tissue.

The importance of this fact is enormous; it has been calculated that as a result of the simultaneous relaxation of the millions of capillaries when the body is violently exerted, the volume of blood in the voluntary muscles is increased about three hundred times. Contraction is not confined to the capillaries; the smaller arteries and veins are also capable of marked changes in diameter. Variation in size of the capillaries may be seen without any elaborate apparatus; the paleness of skin depends on the amount of blood it contains, and the flush produced by a hot fire, or the blushing that accompanies various emotional states, are due to this factor. The essential response of the circulation to muscular exercise is this increase in blood-flow through the tissue. But there are other changes, too. It is clear that a mere dilatation of the capillaries, unsupported by correlated changes in other parts of the circulation, would be of little avail. (Copyright, 1929, by H. G.
